CHICAGO, May 1.—There was a revival of in at in the Carter divorce entertainment to. Mrs. Mary H. Morriesey, housekeeper of Corner's visits there, is the only witness for Carter who claims to have seen anything of a compromising character between Mrs. Carter and her male friends. In her deposition, filed in the case some time ago, she swore that she way Mrs. Carter and a strange man on the terrace of the Cooper House at a late hour one night in the Summer of 1882, and that she thraw a pitcher of water on the couple.

The trial has been progressed to Leslie Car-ter's cross bill in which he charges his wife with misconduct with Dudley is Commisconduct with Dudley S. Gregory, a lator. Mrs. Morrissey was the first witness called. She is a stout, pleasant-faced woman of thirty-eight years, with a fresh, clear com-. Mrs. Carter occupied a room on the first floor in the north wing at the head of the stairs, and Mrs. seey's room was on the same floor. After lock at night there were no Lights in the ms underneath the floor on which the house seeper's and Mrs. Carter's rooms were located. Mr. Walker handed Mrs. Morrissey a photograph of her window and the terrace fringing the hotel, with a driveway beside it and shrubbery and clusters all around the grounds. There shrubs also between the driveway and terrace large enough for two persons to be behind them without being seen from the drive. Mrs. Morrisser said this driveway was very seldom House in the evening nearly always went into the east grounds and not into the grounds surunding the terrace under her window. the east grounds and not into the grounds surrounding the terrace under her window. The hotel was in the habit of giving a hop every Thursday, and on the occasion when one of the last hope was given Mrs. Morrissey saw Mrs. Carter on the terrace. The witness said that she met Dora Crittendan, the daughter of the proprietor of the Cooper House. About 9. 30 elock on the evening of the hop. Dora's dress was ripped, and she asked Mrs. Morrissey to punic up. The honsekeeper took the girl to her room to pin the dress up.

"I stepped forward to turn up the gas so as to see better," said Mrs. Morrissey, "and as I did so I heard a noise coming through the window, which was open. As I turned up the gas I looked out of the window and saw a man and woman on the terrace."

"Do you know who the woman was?"

"About all enough to swear positively, but he resembled Dudley 8. Gregory, of New York, a guest whom I have seen since."

"What did you do when you saw this?"

"I called to Dora Crittendan to bring me the water pitcher and I throw it out of the window on the couple. They got up and ran and I turned around and hastened out of the room. I said to Dora Crittenden to bring me the water pitcher and I throw it out of the window on the couple. They got up and ran and I turned around and hastened out of the room. I said to Dora Crittenden to the room. I said to Dora Crittenden they were guests. Be said they were probably some of the help. To astisfy myself I ran out of my room and to the private entrance Fround the hotel. When I reached the entrance Mrs. Carter came from the grounds. She was flushed, and her hair was distarranged and on her dress were several stains from the picher of water I threw on her. I don't hink she recognized me. There were others in the room. One was Mrs. Mary J. Abbott. I subsequently made a visit to her in Ovid, N. Y., last Summer, and when I mentioned that I had made a deposition in the case she remembered that she saw me throw the water."

Mrs. Morrissey also swore that she saw Mrs. Carter en deshabil looked out of the window or not, but she did not think that Dora did.

"Did you see Mrs. Carter enter the ballroom after she came in from the sousing you had given her?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Isaw her."

"Didn't any of the ladies ask her what had happened to her or how she had got wet?"

"No: there was nothing of that kind said."

"Did you tell Mrs. Crittenden about this epicals."

"Did you tell Mrs. Crittenden about this episode?"
I did, but she tried to make me think it was the help. She never liked to hear such things, and she said I was mistaken."
Mrs. Mary J. Abbott, an elderly woman from Romola, N. Y. testified that she and others were in Mrs. Morrissey aroom when the house-keeper came in with Dora Crittenden. She heard Mrs. Morrissey ask Dora for the water-pitcher and she saw Mrs. Morrissey throw the mate witnesses in the Carter case. She admitted that she hadn't seen Mrs. Morrissey since 1883 until July, 1887.
Harry P. Nash, now living in Troy, N. Y., was might watchman at the Cooper House in 1883, but not in 1882. He corroborated the women's evidence as to the location and darkness of the terrace where Mrs. Carter and her companion were seen. He had noticed the New York State legislator and Mrs. Carter walking together in the hotel grounds late at hight after enjoying a moonlight ride on the lake.

Me was about seventy years of age, while his wife, the second one, was under thirty. It was given out that they lived unhappily together, but no further cause for the deed was known.

This, it appears, was the story of one of the old man's sons by his first wife. The sons did not live with their father, but on the same farm, and a very bad feeling has existed between father and sons since the second marriage. Dr. Brubaker was called to attend the injured woman, and while he was at the house, in company with a friend from Somerset, the mysterious conduct of the sons aroused unspicion. The doctor's friend entered into an impromptu investigation, it disclosed, first, that between the elder Shanlis and his young wife there was harmony, that he left her early in the morning to feed the stock and had not returned, that she was barned to look for him, that she saw David Shanlis at the barn and requested him to go in search of his father, that on starting for the home she was about in the back, and that she thinks David shot her. The old man's gun was found in the house in its usual place, but David's repeating rife was found in the boach, and with the appearance of inving been recently fired. The two sons were arrested, charged with the murder, and are in all at this place.

SENATOR GORMAN'S BROTHER.

Row Over His Appointment to a Soug Place in the Treasury.

ISPECIAL TO THE WORLD, 1 WASHINGTON, May 1.—Secretary Windom is in sea of trouble, and all on account of Calvin forman, a brother of the Maryland Senator. Congressman McComas and Contestant Muddinsist upon knowing how and why "Cal" Gorman was reinstated as special agent of the Treasury after his dismissal three weeks ago. Mr. Mudd, who dispenses Federal patronage in the Fifth Congressional District of the State,

Mr. Mudd, who dispenses Federal patronage in the Fifth Congressional District of the State, went to the Appointment Clerk of the Treasury and asked an explanation of Gorman's reappointment.

"I know nothing, absolutely nothing about the matter; it didn't pass through my hands; it is entirely personal with the Secretary," answered the Appointment Clerk. "Well, sir, I will sift this outrageous business to the bottom, and Secretary Windom will explain to the Hepublicans of Maryland how it comes that a notorious Higgins-Mahon sort of a partisan, a brother of Arthur P. Gorman, is appointed to a lugrative office paying $8 a day, and good Republicans, honest men, my constituents, are turned away from here day after day with the old story of no vacancy. Bir, it is an outrage." There is fire in the hearts of Maryland Republicans, honest men, my constituents, are turned away from here day after day with the old story of no vacancy. Bir, it is an outrage." There is fire in the hearts of Maryland Republicans, honest men, my constituents, are turned away from here day after day with the old story of no vacancy. Bir, it is an outrage."

There is fire in the hearts of Maryland Republicans, honest men got back. It is all a mystery. Arthur Gorman, But no one seems to understand how Gorman got back. It is all a mystery. Arthur Gorman, be lean awe epunder Cleveland, although as a fact he kept in some of the worst Republican Administration.

The inside of the case is this: Senator Arthur Gorman and ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, of west Virginia, are cousins. They understand each other; they play into each other's hands at hey have common interests and a common purpose. What one wants the other favors. Mr. Davis being Arthur's brother, and when Calvin was dismissed "for want of appropriation" Arthur gave the wink to Henry G. Davis, who thereupon sent word quietly to his very close personal friend, Secretary Windom, that he service and would request that the matter be made special—a personal affair entirely. On the surface there is no dent Harrison.

Baltimore, May 1.—The appointment of Calvin Gorman, a brother of Senator Gorman, as Inspector of Customs at Norfolk has raised a great howl among the rank and file. At the State Convention of Republican clubs to-day at Frederick a resolution was adopted after a heated discussion denouncing the appointment as inimical to the interests of the Republican party. For a time the Convention was in an uproar.

PERSONAL AND PERTINENT.

It is not strange that the Vicercy of China is ill. Forty-seven doctors are attending him. And now the cruel waters of oblivion have vesant Fish. It is rumored that Ward McAllister's visit to Washington was to obtain the Coffsulship to the Lonely Isles.

President Harrison remarked to a friend yes-terday that he hoped to see as many baseball games this year as he did last season.

A Boston newspaper announces that William D. Howells, the novelist, will return to the Hub text month to reside there permanently.

The slight cold wave which struck Madison Square Tuesday afternoon was caused by President Harrison's failure to salute Gov. Foraker,

When Gov. Biggs, of Delaware, reached Fortysecond street during the parade of Tuesday last some impudent urchin in the crowd cried out, " How's the peach-crop, Gov'ner ?"

Gov. Beaver, of Pennsylvania, is a wonderful norseman considering the fact that he has but me leg and has to be strapped to his saddle. But would not some of the other Governors ride better if strapped to their saddles?

Baron Erlanger, the Paris banker who has been looking at our railroad system, says:
"When my boys reach manhood I shall probably organize our business here in the shape of a branch house. I am charmed with America. and shall certainly return to it."

The reports of James Russell Lowell's ill-health led New Yorkers to fear that he was really breaking down. But he showed no evidence of decline at the banquet on Tuesday night. He looks old and his hair has grown very white, but his voice was strong and he seemed to be feeling during, the Centennial celebration than he did at the Inauguration. He is said to be very sensitive to the weather, and his mood depends greatly upon whether rain or sunshine is in the scendant. In this respect he resembles most people.

It is said that C. P. Huntington, the Republican railway magnate and Democratic newspaper publisher, always refrains from labor on Saturday and Sunday. This is not due to the fact that he has money enough to satisfy his greed, that he has money enough to satisfy his greed, but that he has a strong religious vein running through his system. He is not certain whether Saturday or Sunday is the day appointed by divine decree for rest, and so he observes both.
